The Man With the Wheel Hoe

is not "a brother to the ox," nor does he carry "the burden of the world" or any other burden on his back. He simply does three days' hoeing in one day, and has time to go fishing.

The Planet Jr., No. 17

Single Wheel Hoe, Cultivator and Plow is one of the handiest and most efficient tools invented. You should examine this and other Planet Jr. tools at our store. The hoe-cultivator, like the wheel hoe, are the best in the world.

Price of Wheel Hoe shown in cut, with attachments, $4.75.

Early spring gardening is now in order and many are pursuing that avocation. The ground has assumed the proper condition, the weather is kind and the time is favorable. As always, some fears are expressed for the fruit crop, but experience shows that there is really little difference in the danger from frost, whether the tree blossoms earlier or later.

Cleveland's cabinet of child's photos at the Layton hotel corner is a very interesting study and shows that the artist has a peculiar talent for obtaining the finest results in the portrayal of the little people as well as those of larger growth. Mr. Cleveland is a photographer who is observant and progressive and he is doing some fine work.

Warren E. Williams, telephone line-man, came down from Ashland Thursday to inspect the poles used in the construction of the new telephone line from Grants Pass to Williams. The poles have been strung along the route and the line will soon be in operation. Its length is 21 miles. Another line will soon be built from Jacksonville to Ruch, on the Applegate, a distance of seven miles and still another from Gold Hill to Sams Valley, of about the same distance.

Quite an exciting runaway opened the program for Saturday's happenings. Lister & Calverts team of grays were being driven quite briskly toward the Meritt road and near the Episcopal church a sudden and sharp drop into a rut and consequent severe jerk broke the king-bolt of the buggy. The team proceeded with the forward wheels, the lines slipping through the drivers fingers and left buggy and occupants to shift for themselves while they made a tour of the city. After a brisk little run, they headed for the livery barn, their home, but were turned from their intended course and after outlining a few extensive circles were finally corralled and captured. Outside the original break, no damage was done.

SEQUEL TO THE ROBBERY.

Lusino Vindicted and Released. Ralph Smith Arrested and Held for the Burglary.

The proceedings against G. D. Cusino, who was arrested for the burglary committed on Wilson & Roper's jewelry and tobacco store took a sudden turn Friday when the news was received here by Fred Roper that there was a party in Eugene who was selling pipes and cheap jewelry, a combination calculated to arouse suspicion in view of the goods taken. The authorities there were wired to arrest and hold the man, and Cusino's trial, which had been set for Friday, was postponed until Monday. Sheriff Lister left on Friday evening for Eugene and on Sunday he returned with the prisoner. On Monday morning, Cusino duly appeared before the court at the appointed time and was immediately released. The new prisoner was then brought in and arraigned. His name was Ralph Smith. On request of Attorney G. W. Colvig, who appeared for the state, the trial was postponed until the following day and the prisoner was instructed to procure counsel in the meanwhile. His bonds were fixed at $500 in default of which he was incarcerated in the county jail.

A man giving his name as H. Eaton was arrested 15 miles north of Eugene Monday as the accomplice of Smith and he was brought here but the examination failed to connect him with the robbery and he was released. Smith's trial is continued till Thursday. Goods found in his possession were identified by Wilson & Roper as their property and his conviction seems morally certain.

The prisoner is a short dark young man with a black mustache. He seems to be a comparative stranger here and is known to few though many recall having seen him about town.
Cusino's release is hailed with satisfaction almost universally as few believed in his guilt at any time. His release would have been moderately certain even though no other party had been located. He certainly has a right to feel injured over the treatment he has received as it can not fail to damage him to a greater or less extent. Even though he was released without a trial, the mere fact of his being arrested for such a crime is injurious to his reputation and to his business interests in consequence.
